Dedication

Mrs. Karen S. Lucier

Mrs. Karen S. Lucier, a Spanish teacher at Whitman-Hanson Reg. H.S. from 1984 to 1992, was honored by the Class of 1992 at its graduation ceremony. The following anonymous poem was presented in both Spanish and English by two graduating seniors.

May you always walk in sunshine.
May God's love around you flow.
The happiness that you gave us
no one can ever know.
It broke our hearts to lose you,
but you did not go alone.
A part of us went with you
the day that God called you home.
A million times we have needed you.
A million times we have cried.
If only love could have saved you
you never would have died.

A Tribute . . .

In Memoriam . . .

When I remember Mrs. Lucier, I think of a person who enjoyed life to the fullest. Long before she even knew of her illness, she was determined to savor every moment, every experience that she had. As a result, Mrs. Lucier was unwilling to ever let anything get her down. In fact, she did her best to see that everyone around her was always upbeat, be it her family, her friends and colleagues, or her students. Even during her illness, when receiving calls and/or visits from family and friends, she refused to dwell on her illness and would immediately switch the conversation to the well-being of others. I shall always remember and admire her courage during this most difficult time.

Nor was her concern for others surprising, because that had always been evident to those of us who were so fortunate as to be her colleagues and friends. From the first day I arrived at Whitman-Hanson, it was Mrs. Lucier who came up to me, introduced herself and took it upon herself to "show me the ropes." First, as a mentor, then as a colleague, and soon as a very special friend, Mrs. Lucier became the best personal support system that one could ever have.

To know Mrs. Lucier, was to appreciate this caring for others and also to be treated to a remarkable sense of humor. Mrs. Lucier was a great person to be around because of her wit. With the straightest face, she could pull off the most outrageous hoax, all in the interest of getting others to lighten up, to cheer up when things were a bit tense.

This caring, witty person was above all a truly vital person, full of energy and possessed of a certain joie de vivre that made her fun to be around. Mrs. Lucier was interested in everything: current events, movies, art, fine dining, and, of course, shopping! A better conversationalist there never was, making everyone she conversed with feel at ease at once.

Thanks to these traits and many others, Mrs. Lucier was very special to so many. I know that I consider myself fortunate to have known her, and Mrs. Lucier has left us all with memories which will keep her with us always.

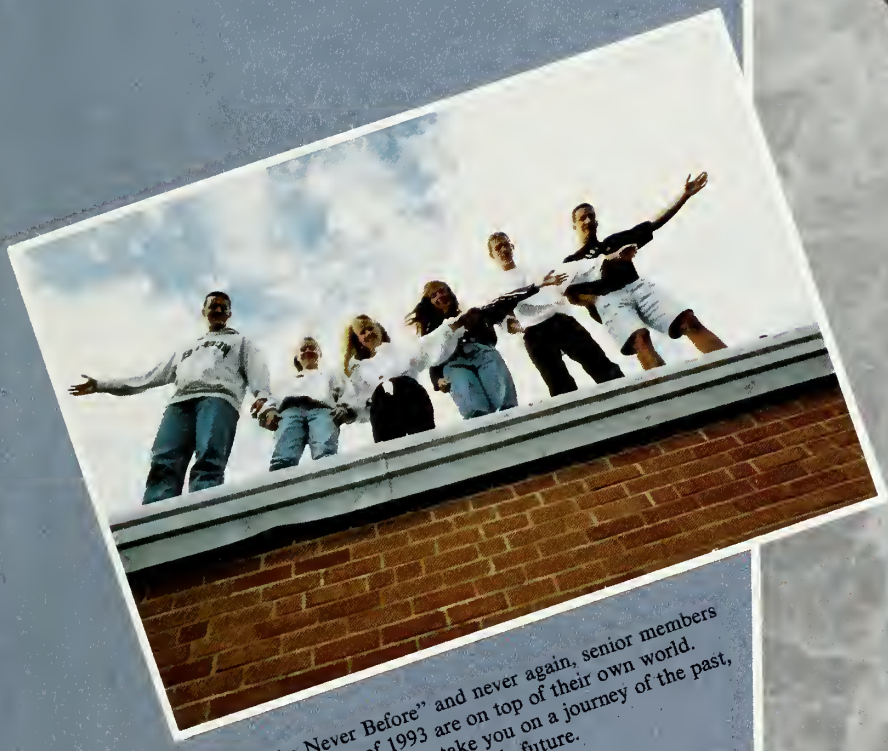
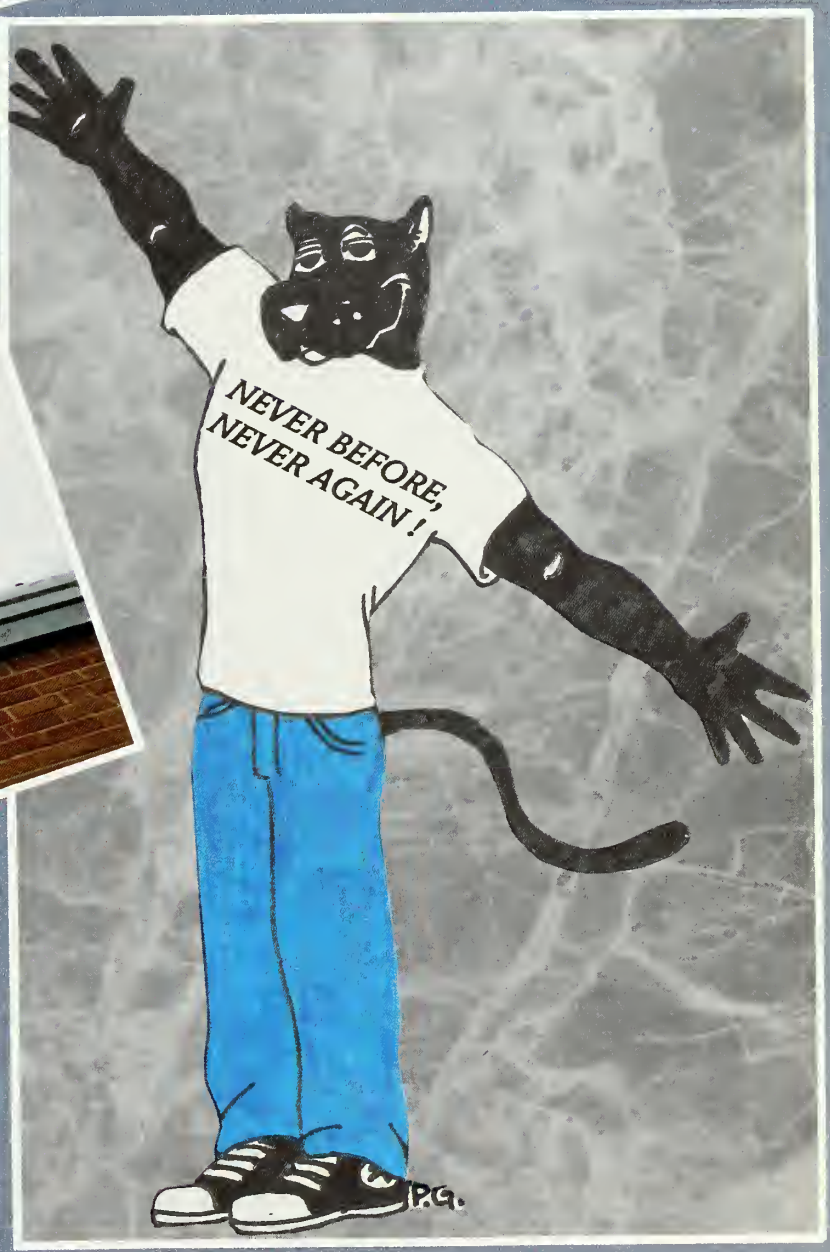
SENIORS . . .





"Like Never Before" and never again, senior members of the Class of 1993 are on top of their own world. Hang on while they take you on a journey of the past, the present, and the possible future.

Summer

"Something Different To Everyone"

By Daniel Edward Ennis

What is summer? Summer is something different for everyone. For some, summer means working days or working nights. For most people, summer means sleeping late, short days, and long nights. The daytime is spent at the beach with friends and family. Summer is vacationing with friends and family. Summer is an opportunity to enrich old friendships and to set foundations for new ones. Summer is a time for going to concerts, trying new experiences, and driving aimlessly about looking for excitement in everything. Summer is a time for testing the limits of one's own freedom and the time to test the limits of one's parents. Summer is the only time of the year that is one's own. It is a time for self satisfaction . . . not working for parents . . . not working to please teachers. One's only aim is being happy and being lazy. Summer is a time to relax . . . to forget the past school year . . . and a time to avoid thinking of the upcoming year.

MEMORIES

Daniel Ennis & Lee Byrne

Life is little more than a string of memories carelessly tied to hopes and plans for the future. We, as a class, have added to that string over the past four years. Alright, so maybe we did lose more students than any class in the history of Whitman-Hanson, and maybe we did start out with one of the worst reputations in recent history, but we pulled it together and made it through. Remember sitting in the auditorium listening to people tell us how High School would fly by and how the next four years would be the best years of our lives? Remember how the seniors seemed so "big" and powerful when we were freshman, and we couldn't believe we would ever be like them? The fact that soon our lives would be moving into new dimensions did not hit us until we began to make those same speeches, until we began calling the Freshman "kids", and until we realized we would soon be out on our own left with only our memories.

Junior Prom

By Daniel Edward Ennis
"We've Got Tonight!"

On May 16th the Class of '93 gathered at the Halifax Country Club for its Junior Prom. The Prom Committee had arrived early to make sure the country club would be looking its best, and their efforts were not in vain. The tables, walls, and even the ceiling were spiritedly decorated in the school colors. After pictures were taken, the class enjoyed a buffet style dinner. The dance floor, which had been vacant all evening, quickly filled after dinner. "People were all jumping around having a great time; it was awesome," said Michele Trotta. Many people enjoyed being with their fellow classmates. "It was a night to remember, like never before, because it was the first time our class gathered as a whole," said Kristen Erickson. Jodie Jagiello said that it was fun just seeing all of her friends "having fun together." After the prom, people headed in their separate directions to parties and the beach.

TATTOOS

... A new "Old way" of expresssing oneself

by Daniel E. Ennis

Like never before, people are searching for new ways of expressing themselves. For some, tattoos are the medium that they have found. Although tattoos are, by far, a new creation, they are becoming increasingly popular among high school students. It seems as though, at every turn, someone else has one. People will go a good distance to get a tattoo. Some go to the Ghetto Gallery in Maine and others go to Benny's in New Hampshire or Ruby's in Rhode Island. The price of a tattoo and the amount of time spent adorning oneself also varies. Rob Holt's cost him $50 and took 30 minutes; Mike Gallagher's cost him $65 and took him 45 minutes. Many other students have had theirs done by friends. Most people have had them placed on their arms, backs, or ankles, but there are several who have them in places one shall refrain from mentioning. Why get a tattoo? Not many have given definite answers to that question. Joe Jefferson just says that he has always wanted one, while Rob Holt says that he was just bored and had nothing better to do. Then there is the philosophical Bonnie Cavicchi who claims that "it separates the women from the girls."

Whitman-Hanson Seniors

"A Relaxed And Casual Style" Combines To Form Individuality

By Daniel Ennis
And Audra Trombley

No matter where one goes in Whitman-Hanson High School, one will find different types of people participating in all sorts of different activities and having all different sorts of styles. One word to describe Whitman-Hanson and its students would have to be casual. Whether they are eating in the cafeteria, hanging out with friends in the hall, working in the art room, or doing options for a teacher, the Seniors at Whitman-Hanson are always relaxed. And why should Whitman-Hanson students be relaxed? After three years of learning how to avoid work and wheedle passes, they have become experts at acquiring free time to relax. And of course, students need to be relaxed; if they let all the stresses . . . from Mr. Barrington hunting them down for missing office detention or Mrs. Bergquist looking for yearbook pictures . . . they wouldn't be the great relaxed class that they are. So instead of wondering who the weirdo is with the blue hair, or fretting over the everyday issues of life, remember everyone is his own person and everyone has his own style. It is the casual atmosphere of the school and the acceptance of individuality that have allowed the Whitman-Hanson students to become the individuals they are.

Senior Superlatives "Very Special Whitman-Hanson Seniors" By Heather Raftery

Senior Superlatives recognize very special Whitman-Hanson seniors. These awards have appeared in the yearbook since the regional high school was first established in 1960. Though the categories change from year to year, based on the desires of each yearbook committee, the concept of identifying outstanding members of the senior class remains the same. The entire senior class votes for one male and one female who have lent their talents to promote the high school in its various activities. Several aspects of the students' personality are also taken into consideration. The seniors chosen symbolize the diversity of character that is very representative of the Class of 1993. As the high school years fade into memories, these faces will forever remind students of the special qualities of their classmates, qualities which make these people worthy of being recognized as the 1993 Senior Superlatives.

Every year it is tradition for the Whitman-Hanson High School Seniors to vote on who they think best fit the title "Mr. and Ms. Whitman-Hanson". The winners of this award represent model students of the school. These students have the qualities of dedication, school spirit, honesty, enthusiasm, and pride. Each senior casts his votes at the same time the senior superlatives are chosen. The Mr. and Ms. Whitman-Hanson award is a distinguished award because it represents a very special student.

Mr. Sweeney goofs off once again with Laura and Rachel Bates.

Miss Theresa O'Donnell, the Social Studies student teacher, looks up to ask, "Should I pass or fail them?"

LIKE NEVER BEFORE . . .

SPECIAL EVENTS . . .

Of the various special events held at Whitman-Hanson, Halloween is one of the most celebrated. This mysterious "trick - or - treater" was one of several students who has participated during these occasions. School spirit, club membership, and the bonds of friendship brought teachers and students together to make these events "like never before" more memorable.

Above: Meredith Grabowski, Shawn Kain, Kerry Derosier, Steve Seger, Matt Cadman, Jeff Kailer, Ryan Peterson, and Doug Bernard try to act cool and calm before facing the seniors.

A few comments by the freshmen:

We the Class of '96 will always remember the freshman/senior banquet as a memorable time in our freshman year at W-H. We started off eating meatball and cold cut subs and everyone was then assigned to different groups by categories. A couple of the games we played were the toilet paper game, "Baby, if you love me, smile." passing of the oranges game, and also "I send a letter."

Meeting all the seniors was a fun experience and we hope when we're seniors it'll be as much fun for those freshmen as it was for us.

Lauren Belden said, "I look forward to the freshman/senior banquet when I'm a senior; maybe that time the oranges won't be eaten."

The Dark Side: From psychos to vampires to the devil, W-H had 'em all. Students and teachers dressed in their favorite evil garb. Mrs. Mather served up some devilishly good snacks at the snack bar; Steve Gilleo dressed as the friendly school psychotic, while Mr. Barrington and Nicole Hannon were vampires and prepared the victim for Rachael Sullivan, the grim reaper.

Courtney Morgan and Jessica Shutt, Varsity Cheerleaders, are members of the two W-H cheerleading squads which march in the parade.

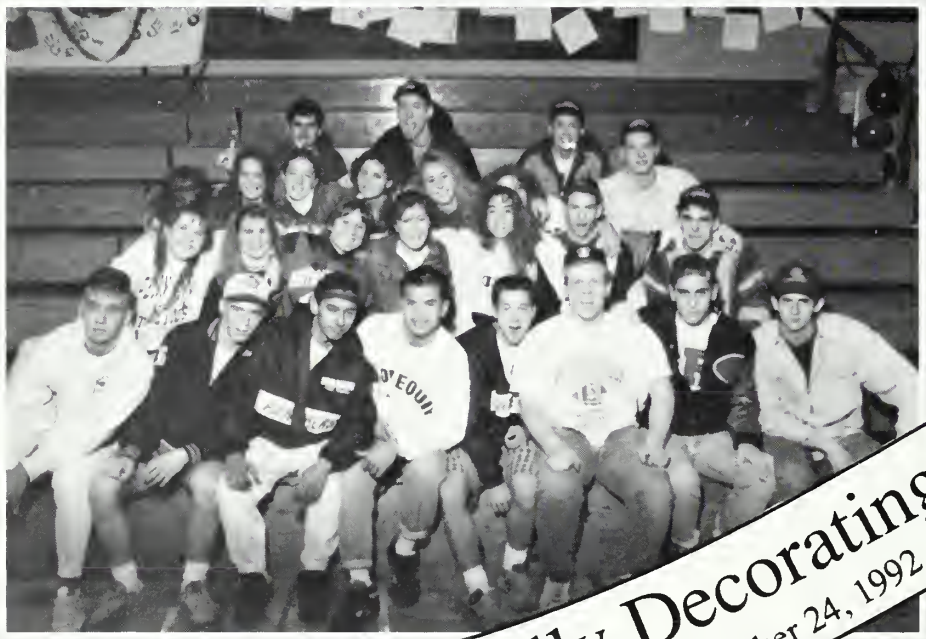
"You expect me to do that?! We didn't practice that before!", exclaimed Melissa Meinhold.

Mr. Dodge struts past the band with authority and confidence.

"Hey, everybody! Look at me! I know what I'm doing!" says Kelli LaGrange with a definite air of confidence.

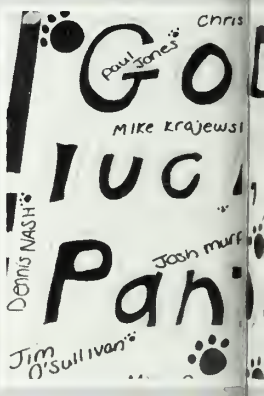
Charles Tuttle, Nate Dowling, Paul Richards, Lee Ann Delorey and Dara Meade impress the crowds with their style and talent.

Decorating for the Thanksgiving Rally has become a tradition at W-H. Seniors, Erika Gustafson and Megan Hunt, were among the many seniors who showed their senior pride for their last rally.



Rally Decorating...

November 24, 1992



The sophomores also showed their "Panther Pride." Jim Fordham and Ryan Broadford held up the festivities with football player Eric Runci, while the girls, Kelly Connolly, Whitney Blake, Kim Wessling, and Jill Hennelly lined up with their PANTHERS Banner.

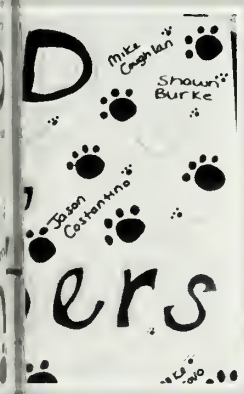
...Never Been So Supportive



The poor Freshmen! Well, they had spirit too. The happy group of freshmen stood up against the seniors to show that even the seniors' sign couldn't break their enthusiasm for their first rally.

Thanksgiving Rally...

Coach Bancroft was so excited with his team's ninth in a row A. C.L. Title that he started to dance.

The senior football players find humor in J.J. Reardon's thanks, "Romeo, Romeo, I love you Kendra."

The senior class shows its enthusiasm toward the rally as Lisa, Catherine, and Nikki strut their stuff as the Three Musketeers, and Sheryl and Colleen perform their skits as Leo and Eric.

Sitting way back in the bleachers, this group of juniors saw all and showed great enthusiasm as their peers performed.

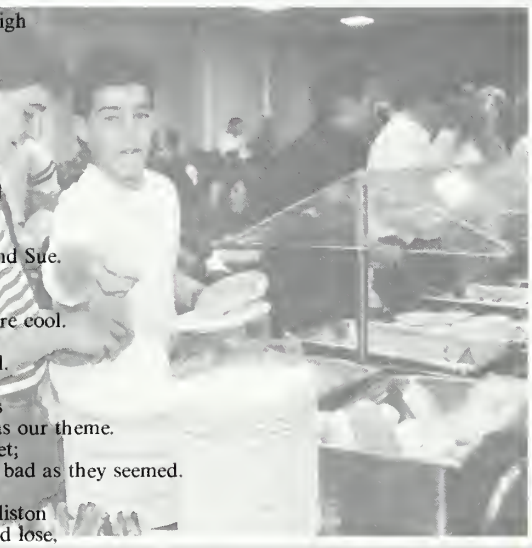
STUDENT LIFE . . .

"I'm in no rush!" says David Mason. "I just love my English class this year! In fact, it's always been one of my favorites . . . if not my most favorite subject. And, after all, it's only Friday . . . and payday . . . and date night . . . so, why would I be in a rush?"

1993 Class History....

Four years gone by
So much has changed.
We look back with a sigh
Our lives re-arranged.



Freshman year
The start of it all.
The seniors looked big
And so did the halls.

Our class would be led
By a chosen few,
Mrs. P., Scottie O.
Eric, Chrissy, Katty and Sue.

Classes were hard
And the New Kids were cool.
We were finally part
Of a spirit filled school.

We decorated the halls
"Heaven and Hell" was our theme.
We enjoyed the banquet;
The seniors weren't as bad as they seemed.

The battle against Holliston
They thought we would lose,
But to give up the fight
We would never choose.

Springtime arrived,
South went the band.
They claimed the gold,
We gave them a hand.

The school play was planned
And "Grease" was the one.
We saw the Red Sox;
The rain didn't stop the fun.

Our class trip came;
We went to Riverside.
A fun day was spent
On the exciting rides.

Summertime began
And our first year was done.
We deserved a vacation,
No more work, but fun.

It was the worst of years,
the second of four.
Nothing much happened,
But Mr. Kelly went to war.

Chrissy, Brendan
Michelle and Sue
Were the officers that year
And tried to guide us through.

Football was unbeaten,
Girls' basketball was great.
As for hockey, soccer and baseball,
Let's just say they weren't first rate.

The bells became tones
And we were all confused.
Crosby cleared the caf
And we were all amused.

Junior year was coming
Without Scottie O.
Sophomore year had ended
And we were ready to go.

Now we were juniors and halfway there
We were still a class wanting to care.
President Aubry was there to lead us all.
At the lock-in we managed to break the big ball.

The rally and Powder Puff were lots of fun,
With our V.P. Jason we know who really won.
Then came the "Semi" with lots to do,
Decorations, music, and good times, too.

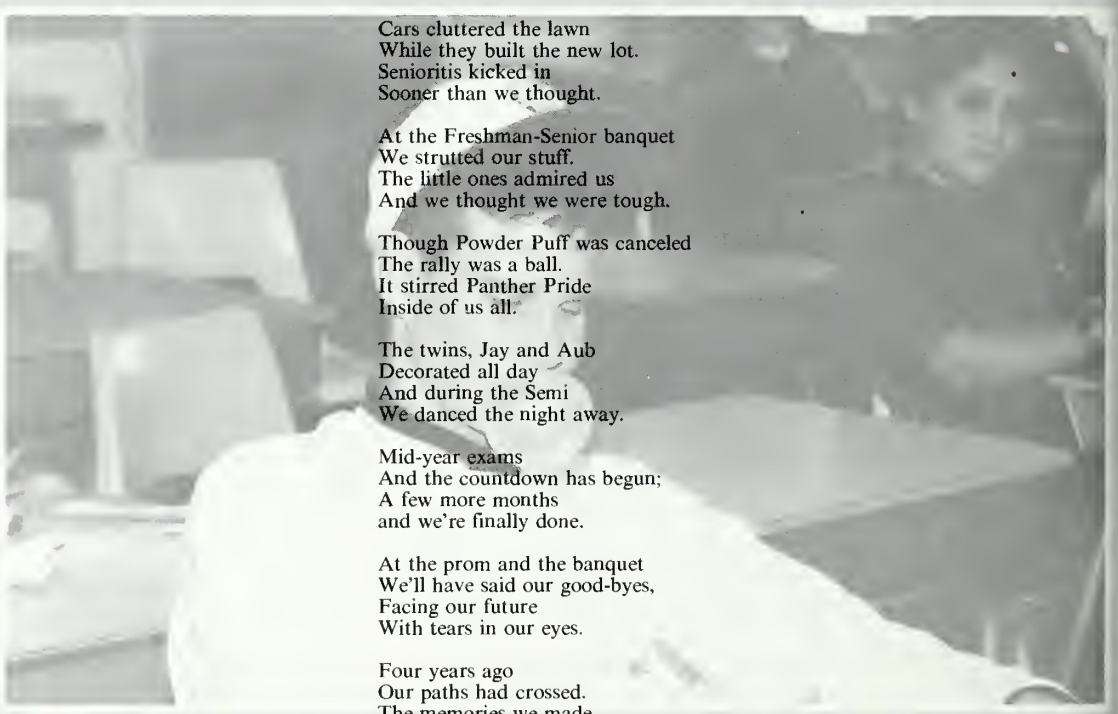
Throughout the year sports took all,
In basketball, soccer, wrestling and football.
With the hat problem finally solved,
The sexual harassment rule soon evolved.

We had lots of singing to do,
With "Anything Goes" and the Lip Sync, too.
SAT's and Spellmans made stress levels high,
We all held our breath.

Getting our licenses was a lot of fun;
Even with fights over who would ride shotgun.
To Mrs. Lucier we said a good-bye,
But all of us wanted the answer to "Why?"

Spring in the air and the prom on its way,
"We've Got Tonight" was all we could say.
Stink bombs and super soakers proved summer was near.
Beach, bridge jumping and concerts led to our senior year.

Applications, ID cards,
Camp Kiwanee and more
All greeted the seniors
As we walked through the door.



Cars cluttered the lawn
While they built the new lot.
Senioritis kicked in
Sooner than we thought.

At the Freshman-Senior banquet
We strutted our stuff.
The little ones admired us
And we thought we were tough.

Though Powder Puff was canceled
The rally was a ball.
It stirred Panther Pride
Inside of us all.

The twins, Jay and Aub
Decorated all day
And during the Semi
We danced the night away.

Mid-year exams
And the countdown has begun;
A few more months
and we're finally done.

At the prom and the banquet
We'll have said our good-byes,
Facing our future
With tears in our eyes.

Four years ago
Our paths had crossed.
The memories we made
Will never be lost.

On joyous June fifth
In caps and gowns we'll be
For the last time united
The class of '93.

And one day in the future
We'll all meet again,
And reflect in the fun
And the great times "back then"

Good-bye to the Panthers,
Good-bye red and black,
Good-bye Whitman-Hanson,
Don't cry looking back . . .

. . . Our paths will cross again.

Then And Now

How Times Have Changed

by Brian Ciccolo and Dan Ennis

The day-to-day hustle of our lives can make a person feel rushed and out of sync with life. One needs to sit back and pause for a moment, to quietly reflect on the joys and pains of yesterday's memories, today's pursuits, and tomorrow's dreams.

As one thinks about the past, memories of school life at W-H emerge frequently. The 1992-93 school year started off normal enough - last year's seniors out, this year's freshmen in, and all the guys in between moving up a grade (well, almost all of them) - but, if one reads between the lines, many things have changed. For instance, now there is delicious Papa Gino's Pizza in the cafeteria and a new satellite dish (too bad we don't know what it's for) just to name a couple.

These have been noticeable changes; there have also been more inconspicuous ones. Since the regionalization of the two towns, there has been money available to our school, allowing us to purchase such luxuries as the kiln in the art department and to install a new asphalt track.

Someone once said that the more things change, the more they remain the same. Whitman-Hanson High School has been proving this throughout the years, because even though our school has changed and continues to change . . . the staff and students have continued to uphold the excellent reputation of the school, a school known for excellence in academics as well as athletics.

To Left: The new kiln in the Art Department has caused heated discussion amongst the students.
To Right: The 1992-1993 school year is the first year of full regionalization. Amy Traline, in a cooperative high school/middle school venture, demonstrates the use of the computer to some sixth grade students from Whitman Middle School.
Bottom: No! This is not a new parking area for students. Regionalization has necessitated a large parking area for the enlarged office staff.

Below: Like most seniors, Christina Holzman has lavishly decorated her locker, and now it radiates her own unique personality.

Students, having missed out on another snow day, hurry to their next warm class.

Hallway Life

Just Ten More Feet . . .

by Brian Ciccolo

"Almost there, just ten more feet . . . Yes, safe inside a classroom!" Sound familiar? It should - these are the thoughts rushing through the mind of a freshman during the first couple of weeks of high school.

It's not an easy task, carrying an armload of books and racing across the school grounds, trying desperately just to reach your next class before the bell rings. You wouldn't even have to run, except you've forgotten your locker combo. Even if those tricky little numbers didn't slip your mind, you still have to struggle through tightly jammed halls filled with others like yourself and the "too cool" upperclassmen.

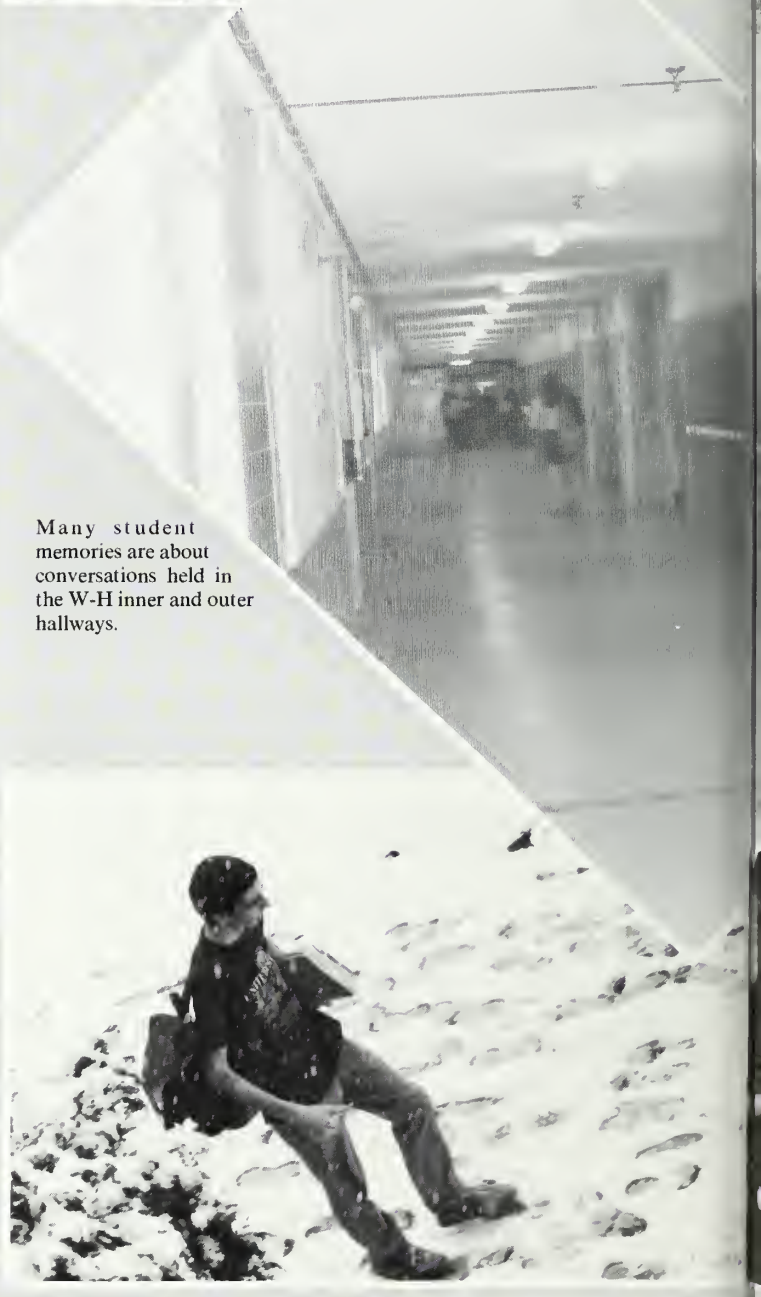
Finally, when you do reach your locker, you realize that you forgot your next class's homework in the class you were last in. How frustrating! Now, it's rush back and forth again - only to find the books you so foolishly left on the floor by the foot of your locker strewn across the hall from passerbys' feet.

Now, you have more books than you started with, because you didn't have time to put any away.

Trying earnestly not to drop anything, you walk into class just moments after the bell rings. The teacher demands an excuse. You simply force a smile and calmly say, "I was just talking to some friends and must have lost track of time."

As you meekly take you seat, you wonder, "Does everyone have this problem?" and "Do I have to do this again next period?"

Many student memories are about conversations held in the W-H inner and outer hallways.



Adam, in one of the outer hallways, is in deep concentration, while trying to walk in previously made footprints.

o, Greg, what was your joke this me? Jay, John, and Kelly seem to ppreciate your humor, but Shanya still trying to figure it out.

"Do you think we should go to basketball practice, Jill?" "I don't know, Danielle, maybe we'll skip."

"Quick, I need those answers before class . . . "

J. pulls Kendra close to keep her arm.

Above Left: "Not only do they make us suffer mentally, but physically," says Steffen Hill.

Above Right: Locker Break with Erika, Bernie, Jodie, Katty, and Patrice was always fun, but the question is . . . did they ever make it to class?

Cafeteria Life

Physical And Social Nourishment . . .

by Brian Ciccolo

You've waited four, possibly five, long and tedious periods for this moment - lunch break! Now, the time has come (finally) and you can converse with friends and replenish your energy with some good food. What starts out as an innocent daily event suddenly changes into a loud, crowded strife for survival, because you've entered the Cafeteria Zone.

Your never-ending series of problems begins immediately upon your arrival, as you force your way through a crowd of equally persistent students.

You begin to recite to yourself the objectives to a successful lunch:

Objective One: Finding a table and a seat. Sounds easy - may be difficult.

Objective Two: Deciding what to have for lunch. Papa Gino's Pizza or cafeteria cuisine?

Objective Three: Getting back to your seat. Very messy - after spilling grape juice all over your best shirt.

Objective Four: Keeping and eating your own lunch. Eager hands pluck fries from your plate as you pass by.

Objective Five: Finishing last night's homework. Plenty of time to finish that five page I-had-all-last-week-but-left-till-now essay

Objective Six: Leaving the cafeteria and forgetting the whole experience.

This is obv[illegible] favorite part of the period . . . until tomorrow . . . when the cafeteria experience will happen all over again.

What do you mean I have to read a book . . . and do homework in this class?

Mathematics/Business

From Bisectors To Computers

The Mathematics Department is in its third year of adopting the new National Council of Teachers of Mathematics Standards and of embarking in the exciting University of Chicago School Mathematics Project sequence. Students are becoming more active in their own learning process and working more closely with their peers in order to stimulate higher levels of understanding in mathematics. Technology continues to play an evermore important role in learning mathematics. Students are strongly encouraged to take mathematics for all four years during high school.

The Business Education Program is designed to provide a background for all students at Whitman-Hanson by accomplishing three goals. It should contribute to the economic literacy of all students. It should provide an adequate vocational program for students who will enter business after graduation. And lastly, the curriculum should provide college preparatory students the opportunity to elect business courses.

Social Studies/Fine Arts

From Cicero To Ceramics

The Whitman-Hanson Social Studies/Fine Arts Department is very much admired by other surrounding high schools, according to department head, Mr. Robert Cole. Mr. Cole has traveled abroad and has written and been editor, both twice, in the New England Journal of History.
History students are involved in many events outside of school: The Phi Alpha Theta History Conference, held at Framingham State College, State History Day, and the Citizen Bee. Whitman-Hanson has been successful every year.

The Art Department, headed by Mr. Matt Delaney, runs a variety of courses every year for students interested in the arts. The department recently acquired a kiln for the drying of students' pottery projects. Another area many students find their calling in is music. Mr. Jeff Dodge leads the W-H band and chorus.

All of the students involved in these departments show great appreciation for all of their teachers and take great pride in the displaying of their talents.

Ms. Moss has been the Special Olympics Trainer for 12 years at Whitman-Hanson, as well as Co-Competition Director for the South Suburban Area. She has coached W-H students at the state as well as the regional level and has been a most valuable asset to this school and to the Special Olympics.

Bob Hammond and Bill Campbell go for the gold in the Special Olympics bowling event, held at Maple Lanes in Brockton.

Physical Education/Health/Special Needs/In-School Suspension

From Olympics To Demerits

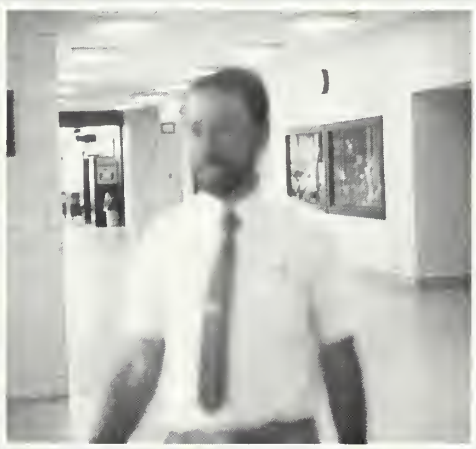
Physical Education, Health, Special Needs, and I.S.S. What do these four areas have in common? They are all elements in the school directed at improving the development of its students.

The Physical Education Department does its best to make sure students are in shape and that they stay physically fit. The Health Department informs students of issues that will be important in their near futures - issues such as drug and alcohol dependency, sex and sexually transmitted disease. The course is required for all freshmen.

The Special Needs Program offers students with learning disabilities educational assistance. I.S.S. is supposed to teach "potential delinquents" a lesson of self-control. It is in self-control through in-house suspension and office detention. Some students find in-house suspension a refreshing break from the daily school routine, but this is an atypical attitude. As of 12/31/92, The Class of 1994 has, by far, had the most suspensions of any class in the school. One lucky sophomore student has also been invited to serve 41 office detentions already, and he still has another semester to improve his record.

No matter what, these four elements are important to the social structure of the school.

This is how the students, after a long day through In-School Suspension, see Mr. Barrington.



Jeremy Danforth thinks to himself that maybe he will get out of In-School Suspension early if he flashes Mrs. Cy a smile.

"Hi! What can I do for you?" says Sue DeChellis, as she accepts another deposit at Whitman-Hanson's very own branch office of the Rockland Trust Company.

Science/Practical Arts/Occupational Education

From Frogs To Children

The Science Department focuses on subjects related to important aspects of life, from ecology to human anatomy. The Practical Arts and Occupational Education Programs prepare students for the professional world. In addition to these well-known programs ....

Deep down in the halls of Whitman-Hanson Regional High School, there is a special class in session. These students aren't learning Calculus or Physics. This class teaches them a special skill, the responsibility of raising a child.

Concerned with the high dropout rate of teenage parents, the W-H Regional High School Teen Parenting Program was created. The purpose of the program is not only that of education, but it is also to guide teenage parents into the right direction in life.

This program allows teenage parents to be full-time students, as well as parents at the same time. It shows these students that they can still fulfill all their dreams, despite all the responsibilities of full-time parenting.

Girls Soccer

Kicking Up A Storm

The seniors join together before a big game.

Whitman-Hanson Girls Soccer had a winning season with an impressive record of 14-4-2.

The team was strong and was led by Senior Tri-Captains: Sue Cole, Arlene Wright and Renee Weatherby. With seniors leaving, there were many open spaces on the varsity team. The underclassmen, however, rose to the challenge and successfully filled the voids.

The Panthers sent Renee Weatherby and Sue Cole to the ACL All-Stars, held at Whitman-Hanson, and both did well. The team ended up making the State Tournament, where they lost in the South Sectional finals with a score of 3-0.

The future is bright for the underclassmen, and the seniors will surely have success wherever they go.

Making The Goal

The Boys Varsity Soccer Team, led by Co-Captains, Steve Gatulis and Paul Tracey, finished the season with a disappointing 2-13-2 record. Although their record did not reflect their ability, their dedication, determination, and spirit pulled them through a difficult season.

The inexperienced team, with young talent as Matt Sawatzky, Alex Karalexis, Brian Balasco, and Mike Taylor learned how to work as a team with returning starters, Kevin Seger, Derek LaCombe, Paul Tracey, and Steve Gatulis. It is this experience that will help them lead the team in the next two seasons.

Varsity member, Brian Osborne, Senior, shades off the Marshfield opponent.

Paul Tracey was voted to the All-Star Team as one of the top defenseman in the Atlantic Coast League.

Coach Jim Barrington says, "We were a young, inexperienced squad that learned a lot this season. We are looking very positively to the future and will turn things around next season. Thank you seniors for your dedication and determination."

Coach Black gives one of his trademark longwinded speeches before a meet.

The Boys Cross Country Team had ye another winning season under the command of Coach Black and the tri-captains Tom Newton, Rad Pike, and Jeff Flynn.

After suffering marginal losses to D-Y and Duxbury early in the season, the team entered the post-season with an 8-2 record and the same winning attitude that carried them out of the regular season.

At the South Shore Principals, the team finished second behind Weymouth, and at both the Catholic Memorial Invitational and Eastern Mass. Championships, they finished 2nd behind D-Y.

They put an end to their season placing 8th at the State Championship meet in Gardner.

The Girls Cross Country Team finished its season with a 5-5 record. The Panther Girls were hit with a continuous string of injuries; only Karen Wagner managed to escape the injury path. As top runner on the team, Karen went on to: break many records, place 9th at the EMass. Div. II meet, 5th at State Coaches, and 31st in the States. Mandy Petty, also experienced a great year, with times of 23:07 at the E.Mass. Div. II Meet and 23:15 at State Coaches.

Winning The Title

How do they do it? After a dismal 0-3 start, the mighty Panthers came roaring back to win 7 straight and capture their 9th straight league title.

Once again, the Panthers were counted out from the get go, and once again behind the strong group of veterans, the Panthers prevailed.

Their biggest and probably most crucial game came in a 42-20 trouncing of Duxbury. Coach Bob Bancroft was the general who led his onslaught of coaches and players into battle.

Of his team, Coach Bancroft says, "The seniors carried us much further than we expected to go; their leadership enabled the streak to continue, when everyone else felt it would end."

Cheering For A Reason . . .

The Varsity Football Cheerleaders had a great season this year. They participated in many events, including the Veterans Day Parade, and this year, for the first time, hosted a Varsity Competition. The girls worked hard and put in many hours of practice and lots of time towards their "Secret Pals". Before each home game, they decorated the locker room to get the team spirited. The dedication and spirit of the four seniors on the team, Lisa Schmit, Catherine Schlieff, Erika Gustafson, and Sheryl Frazier, will be missed next year! The Varsity Basketball Cheerleading squad consisted of all sophomores and juniors this year. These girls worked extremely hard to support the Panthers. Their flips, kicks, Panther Pride, and dedication helped the team complete a good season. Between the enthusiastic crowd and the supportive cheerleaders, the team sure got the backing it deserved.

For the first time ever, the Varsity Basketball Squad has 8 sophomore members on the team.

The 12 member Boys Varsity Basketball Team plays a 20 game season. This year's team, with Co-Captains Joe Collins and Brian Lussier, is comprised of 4 seniors and 8 juniors.

According to Coach Bill Sweeney, the assets of this year's team include: Joe Collins, a good shooter; Brian Lussier and Brian Morrisey, great rebounders, and Derek LaCombe, an excellent ball handler.

Coach Sweeney also says that this year's team, comprised of outstanding individuals with a lot of character, is competing in a very difficult league. Their roughest opponent is Duxbury, due to the outstanding ability of the whole team.

Joe Collins, W-H Co-Captain says, with a 2-14 record to date, "it has been a very tough season. The JV and Varsity have gone out and done the best it can, but there is not a lot of varsity experience on the team."

With plenty of returnees, including freshmena and sophomores, the future for next year looks bright.

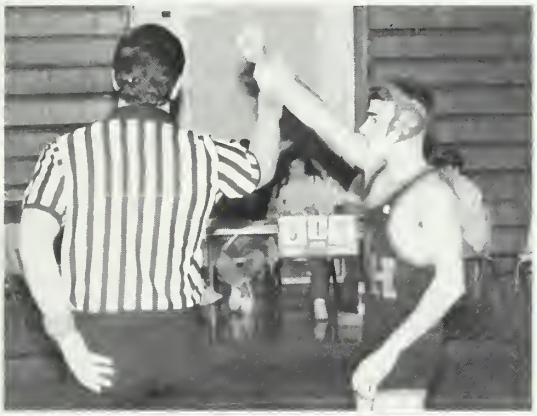
Wrestling

Making The Right Moves



"Success breeds success," was the answer Coach Bob Gay gave, when asked about the Panthers Wrestling Team. As a fairly new team at W-H, the team has been in existence for 15 years and has had 14 winning seasons.

"The seniors on this year's team," says Mr. Gay, "are the most dedicated wrestlers that I have ever coached." Success is fun, but it takes a lot of hard work and dedication, two characteristics that the W-H wrestlers have. Each year they travel to different states to participate in wrestling camps to better themselves.

Jeff Cordeiro, who prepared long and hard for the wrestling team in the off season, has, according to Coach Gay, done "a great job as captain".

Mr. Gay says that the two greatest obstacles involved with being a wrestling coach are the very long hours of the all day tournaments and watching the kids struggle to lose weight in order to wrestle in a particular category. However, Mr. Gay says, "One of my proudest accomplishments in life is to have been the W-H Wrestling Coach."

Hockey

Skating The Ice . . .

The key word that governs the Whitman-Hanson Hockey Team is discipline. This year, the Hockey Team has greatly advanced itself, under the direction of Head Coach Bob Corliss and Assistant Coach Dave Peirce, in both its style of play and in general attitude overall.

Perhaps the highlight of the season is the pride that the team shows both on and off the ice. For the first time in a while, the hockey team has become a tough competitor because of both skill and sheer determination. Although in general it is a very young team, it has been a combined effort by freshman, sophomores, juniors, and seniors that has made this year a success.

Eric Donnellen, #66, and Ed Lawrence, #88, battle it out for the Panthers.

The team attacked the ice with both forechecking and backchecking and stunned many of its competitors. Ray Geever and Sean Forbes gave the team the spark it needed; the defensemen were consistently strong.

This was a year that many players came into their own and made the W-H Panthers Hockey Team a success.

A lot of hard work, improvisation, and practice is needed for the presentations made at the junior high schools.

The PROTECT presentation on March 4th at the Indian Head School started with a dance/skit performed to the song "Pressure" by Billy Joel. Each person had a sign with a different type of pressure written on it. In groups of 4 or 5, they crossed the stage either dancing or acting something out to show the different pressures experienced by young people today.

Another one of the skits performed ... this skit was about the dangers of labeling people as snobs, nerds, dirt bags, dorks, or geeks. Students learned not to judge others based on appearance or others' opinions.

Jim Sweeney joins a game of "Simon Says". This game was played to relax the kids so they could talk more easily and trust the PROTECT members.

Here, Tim Driscoll and Mike Taylor are doing an "ice breaker" with the younger kids, trying to help them feel more comfortable with the members of PROTECT.

The band and chorus were excellent this year as usual. Mr. Dodge took control of both programs early and turned them into works of art. The Marching Band performed in two state marching band competitions and received a silver medal at the Abington Band Jamboree. The chorus and concert band participated in the annual Christmas Concert which was a huge success. The band is now planning an exchange concert, and both programs are preparing for the Spring Concert. At all of the performances and practices, the band and chorus displayed great musicianship, dedication, and had a great time doing it.

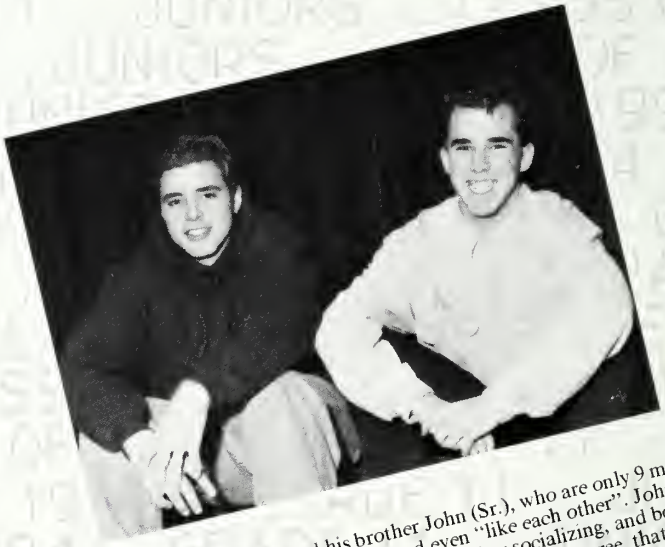
Darren Purssell, a senior, says that his sister Jodi, a junior, is reliable and "awful generous." Even though Jodi is younger, Darren looks up to his sister, who, he says, can help him with his schoolwork. "She's a nice person," says Darren. "She acknowledges my existence even though she kiddingly calls me "Eddie Munster" and I don't plan on making her high school career difficult." At home, Jodi and Darren fight over little things as any brother and sister would. Darren looks forward to this year with Jodi to "be kinder" to her, and to "respect her more, now that she's an upperclassman."



Robert Rothwell (Jr.) and his brother John (Sr.), who are only 9 months and 12 days apart, seem to appreciate and even "like each other". John says that he and his brother spend a lot of time together socializing, and both plan on going to John's senior prom this year. They both agree that Whitman-Hanson is too disciplined. Robert looks forward to his older brother this year "buying his own lunch". He says, with a smile, that his brother talks a lot about L. R. and is a "mousse-a-holic".

Senior Matt Lucas and junior sister Liz have a very appreciative relationship of each other. "She's nice, kind, and is always there for me," says Matt. "I would never think of doing a mean thing to her or making anything difficult for her." Liz shows her brother the same respect in and out of school, saying "hi" in the hallway and never fighting at home.

J.J. and Terrence Reardon are Senior and Junior brothers who share a common respect for each other. When Terrence was asked if he looked up to his brother, he replied, "Yes, I do; he looks out for me and protects me from jerks and troublemakers." They agree on almost everything except when it comes to music. "We feel that we don't have to treat each other any differently at school," says J.J., "because we're not ashamed to give each other a hug and tell one another that we love each other."

Jim "Chuckles" O'Sullivan, a W-H junior, and his sister Patrice, a senior, get along very well both at school and at home. Patrice says Jimmy, (which he prefers to be called because it makes him sound cute) has a great sense of humor and is always upbeat, as evidenced by his singing and dancing in front of the mirrors at home. When Jim is in love, he has been known to sit staring at his girlfriend's picture during dinner. Patrice, who is planning on college next year majoring in psychology and social work, is currently working part time at King's Castle. Jim says, "Patrice has no clue to life, but she'll probably be famous someday."

Amanda and Josh French both admire the different qualities that their sibling has. Josh, a sophomore, admires how his older sister can talk to people she does not know without being embarrassed. Amanda admires how Josh has been able to teach himself how to play bass guitar. Josh thinks of his sister as being caring and trustworthy. This is hard to imagine considering that his sister once made him a tunafish sandwich but replaced the can of tuna with a can of catfood; a sandwich that he unknowingly ate. She thinks that he is nice but is too shy and should be more outgoing like herself. She looks forward to seeing him grow and hopefully "get a girlfriend."

Like many brothers and sisters senior Mike Hurley and his sophmore sister Karen say that they ignore each other at school and ometimes at home. Karen admires many of Mike's friends such as)ave Bonvie and Matt Stearns, but that she also looks up to her rother. She is very much looking forward to Mike's graduation. Mike had little to say on the subject of his sister except that he reoects her dedication to the Boston Red Sox.

Both Donna and Jill Iacobucci think it is fun to be together, especially when they are in good moods. They usually do not fight, but when they do Donna says they have "rip roaring" battles over silly things. Donna, a senior, says that sophomore Jill usually ignores her during the day unless she needs to borrow gym clothes or when she needs a ride home.

BROTHERS? . . . SISTERS?

What are they?

A sister is a living devil . . .
A sister is a good scene-stealer . . .
A sister is a built-in nuisance . . .
A sister is a disaster area . . .
A sister is a friend . . .
A sister is a help-mate . . .
A sister is a slave . . .
A sister is a treasure . . .
A sister makes me happy . . . sometimes . . .
A sister is a walking whirlwind . . .
A sister is precious.

A brother is a good punching bag . . .
A brother is something you have but don't need . . .
A brother is a born-again devil . . .
A brother is my mirror . . .
A brother is friendship and love . . .
A brother is supportive and caring . . .
A brother is someone who can hurt you or protect you . . .
A brother is a pain . . .
A brother is a teddy bear . . .
A brother is someone else to get a present from . . .

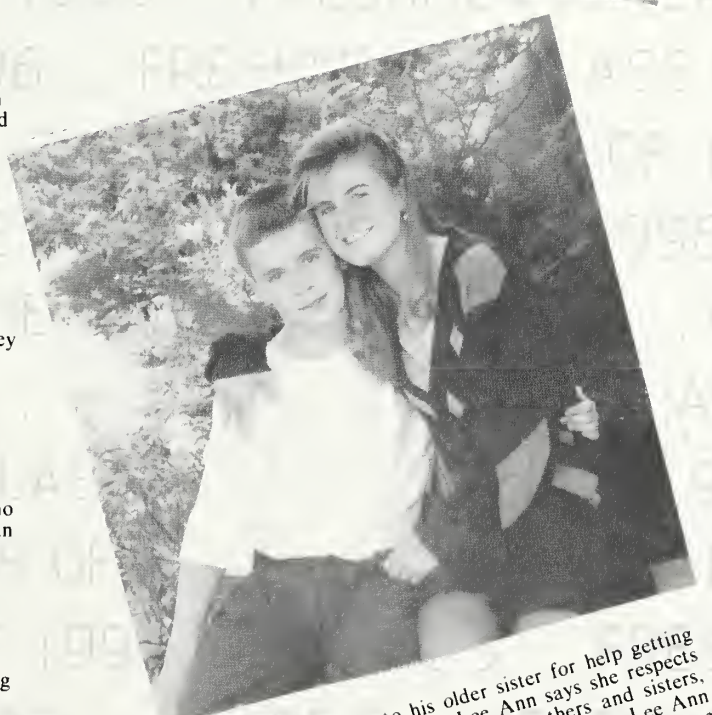
Senior Danielle Belden and freshman Lauren both agree that ending up in the same gym class has been an embarrassing experience. They also agree that they can fight about most anything, including the clothes they wear, the room they share and (according to Danielle) all the things Lauren breaks but will not admit to. Even though they fight, Lauren thinks of her older sister as a nice person. Danielle thinks that her sister is nice as well, and that she has the potential to become very successful.



Jim Byrne looks up to his older sister for help getting through his freshman year. Lee Ann says she respects Jim's morals and ideas. Like all brothers and sisters, they argue over minor things such as money. Lee Ann looks forward to helping her brother through the same situations that she went through as a freshman.

Ryan Peterson looks up to his older sister Lynn, a senior. He says that he one day hopes to be an artist as good as she. With a senior girl and a freshman boy living in the same house together, one would expect a lot of bickering to be taking place in the Peterson household. On the contrary, both say that fighting no longer takes place between them. Sue and Kelli Cole not only think of themselves as sisters but as friends too. Sue, who is a senior, and Kelli, a freshman, admire each other for each other's intellect and athletic ability. "I think that my sister is probably the most caring and hardworking person I know . . . she is always there for me to talk to," says Kelli.

Freshman Laura DeChellis looks up to her older sister Sue. Sue, a senior, gives her advice when it is needed. Although the De Chellis sisters fight over such things as the telephone and clothing, Sue thinks that Laura is a nice person and enjoys talking with her.

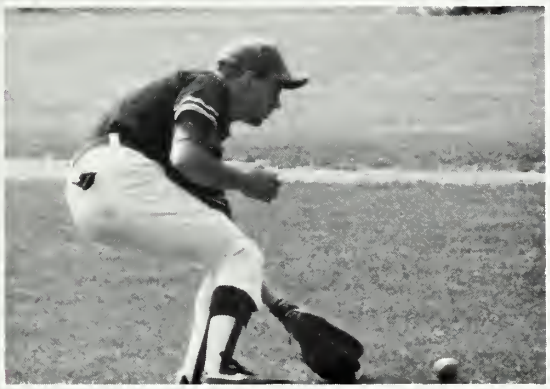
BASEBALL

Hitting a Homer



This year, the 1993 Varsity Baseball Team had many players with the potential to make a great baseball team.

Although the team's record, 9-10, was not as good as one would have hoped, everyone knew that the team's record was not truly reflective of the team's ability.

Each player had his own way of showing leadership towards the team. If someone had to make a hit on a great driving stop, someone would step up and do it.

Each player had a great attitude. If he lost a game, the following day he would be at practice working on his mistakes.

Each game was close. Most games were lost by only one or two runs. This team has nothing to be ashamed of. They always played hard and should be very proud of themselves.

SOFTBALL

Running The Bases . . .

The girls, getting ready for the game, do their "Go Panthers" cheer.

The W-H Girls Varsity Softball Team, led by Captain Heather Raftery, started off with a discouraging record of 2-9. With hard work and dedication the team rose to the challenge and finished with an 8-12 record.

Coach Pam Gould in her first year of coaching varsity says the team showed great improvement throughout the course of the season. "We never gave up, and I'm very happy with the way we conducted ourselves."

Food played a bigger part in the overall team picture than did Amy C. Gomes, says her friends on the team. The team had many enjoyable bus rides concluding with McDonalds. By the end of the season, the team was bribed into winning games rewarded with a Dairy Queen treat.

Jen Tolson was chosen as an honorable mention player in the All-Star game, while Katie Cruise actually played in the All-Star game.

This was the year that many players came into their own and made the team's comeback a success. With many talented, returning players, the Panthers' future looks bright for the 93-94 W-H season.

TENNIS

Serving Over The Net . . .

The Boys and Girls Tennis Teams fought through rocky seasons again this year. Both teams stayed competitive though and won some matches. Improvement was seen on both teams, and the future looks bright for next year.

The Boys Team was led by singles players, Sean Kenney, Co-Captain Steve Fay, and Craig Kowalski. Youth was a big part of the team and next year added maturity should strengthen the team. The team had a great time in the van, going to MacDonalds and listening to the jokes of Steve Gilleo, Frederick Andersson, Jim Marnell, and Dan MacEachern.

The Girls Team was led by Co-Captains Renee Weatherby and Michelle Trotta. Although the final record was 4-14, all of the girls gave extra ordinary efforts. In fact, Sue DeChellis, Kristen Doucette, Aine Timoney, Chrissy Sullivan, and Hilary Taylor were the team's top competitors. The underclassmen were always there cheering for their team.

This year, as they say goodbye to Renee, Michelle, and Sue, the rest of the girls are looking forward to next year. The girls also are planning on convincing Coach LaPierre to let them listen to music!

TRACK AND FIELD

Running In Circles . . .

Once again the Whitman-Hanson Boys Track Team led a successful, undefeated season. The league champions, led by Captains Brian Osborne, Leo Purcell, Doo Rattan, and Dave Wokoske, along with the other seniors and teammates, accomplished many goals. Doo Rattan set a record in the long jump. The talented underclassmen were a strong asset to the team and they look forward to future success.

The Girls 1993 Spring Track Team also had an outstanding season with a record of 6-2. The team, led by seniors Pam Lescault, Lynn Peterson, Allison Schuh, and co-captains Karen Wagner and Mandy Petty showed great talent and spirit throughout the entire season. Many girls qualified for the State Class B Meet, including Karen Wagner, for distance, Mandy Petty, for high jump and hurdles, Amy Lundrigan, for shot-put, and Bonnie Kaplan, for javelin and discus. The team looks forward to next year, hoping to keep up their spirit and be just as strong.

Sara Murray and Dan Ennis look on intently to see if the Panthers will have another victory.

Top Scorer for the entire W-H Track Season, junior Dennis Nash, jumps over the high hurdle.

Senior Prom
May 28, 1993

Looking happy, dressed lavishly, and arriving in style, W-H Seniors Mike Hurley and Adam McElroy enter Lombardo's with their dates for their big night.

Here comes the party!!

Dan Gillet, senior, and Lisa Jarrett, junior, pause for a picture in front of the famous giant Lombardo's chandelier.

Seniors Mike White and Chrissy Hunt prepare for chicken dinner.

Debbie Mann wears her date's bow tie as an added accessory.

Jim Mather is just too cool!

Is this a line up or just the Prom Studs?

These girls really know how to smile!

Miranda Cavan, junior, managed to drag her boyfriend Bruce Wilds, senior, away from fishing and to the Prom.

Nate Wheeler and his date enjoy an evening of music and fun.

Seniors Heather Parsons and Maureen Healy flash happy smiles at the Senior Prom at Lombardo's.

Graduation
June 5, 1993

This arrangement of flowers, along with hundreds of cheerful smiles, helped to brighten up the football field where the graduation was held.

During the course of the graduation, wonderful music was provided not only by the band, but the chorus, which sang "You'll Never Walk Alone", and soloist Richard Nawazelski, who sang "The Star Spangled Banner".

Superintendent Dr. Raymond Avery and Vice-Chairman of the School Committee Dr. Carl Kowalski present a diploma to an emotional Karen Wagner.

Principal Geralde Buckley proudly presents an award to Valedictorian Aubry Shackelford.

234 Students graduated from Whitman-Hanson Regional High School on June 5, 1993. The day was cloudy and rain threatened, but the 11:00 AM graduation proceeded and will never be forgotten.

Mr. Peter Jones, Chairman of the School Committee, and Mr. William Thrasher, Teacher of the Year, both gave speeches and wished good luck to the graduates of 1993.

Senior Class Advisors, Mr. MacDonald and Ms. MacCormick shook hands and congratulated each senior before receiving their diploma.

SPONSORS . . .

Mrs. Kathie Getchell is known to W-H Seniors as the Secretary in Guidance and, of course, Brian's mom. The W-H yearbook thanks Mrs. Getchell for her support of the 1993 yearbook. Her parent congratulatory message and her business advertisement were greatly appreciated and add her to the ranks of "Like Never Before" Sponsors.

PARENT CONGRATULATORY MESSAGES/ SPONSORS

The Sponsor Section of the Whitman-Hanson Yearbook includes Parent Congratulatory Messages and Business Advertising. Thank you parents for your financial support of our yearbook and for your emotional support of our graduating seniors.
